IOWA WOMAN TELLS OTHERS

How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Carried Her Safely Through Change of Life.

Cedar Rapids, Iowa.—"At the Change of Life the doctor said I would have to give up my work and take my bed for some time as there was no help for me but to lie still. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and kept up my work and now I am over the Change and that is all I took. It was better for me than all the doctor's medicines I tried. Many people have no faith in patent medicines but I know this is good."—Mrs. E. J. RICKETS, 354 8th Avenue, West, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Such warning symptoms as sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, backaches, dread of impending evil, timidity, sounds in the ears, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness and inquietude, and dizziness, are promptly heeded by intelligent women who are approaching the period in life when woman's great change may be expected.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound invigorates and strengthens the female organism and builds up the weakened nervous system. It has carried many women safely through this crisis.

HELPLESS AS BABY

Down in Mind Unable to Work, and What Helped Her.

Summit Point, W. Va.—Mrs. Anna Belle Emey, of this place, says: "I suffered for 15 years with an awful pain in my right side, caused from womanly trouble, and doctored lots for it, but without success. I suffered so very much, that I became down in mind, and as helpless as a baby. I was in the worst kind of shape. Was unable to do any work."

I began taking Cardui, the woman's tonic, and got relief from the very first dose. By the time I had taken 12 bottles, my health was completely restored. I am now 48 years years old, but feel as good as I did when only 16.

Cardui certainly saved me from losing my mind, and I feel it my duty to speak in its favor. I wish I had some power over poor, suffering women, and could make them know the good it would do them."

If you suffer from any of the ailments peculiar to women, it will certainly be worth your while to give Cardui a trial. It has been helping weak women for more than 50 years, and will help you, too.

Try Cardui. Your druggist sells it.

Easy & Practical Home Dress Making Lessons

Prepared Especially For This Newspaper by Pictorial Review

A NEW BATHING SUIT.

To make this suit requires:

7 yards 36-inch material at 76c yard... $5.25
1 yard lining 36 inches wide... .15

The pieces of the pattern are laid on the open material right side up, with the exception of the skirt, back, collar and shield. These, with the belt also, are laid on a fold of the goods. The bloomers are attached to an underbody of heavy muslin, and this is easily made by taking up the dart in front, as indicated; then closing the under-arm and shoulder seams. Finish edges with narrow hems.

Now, after taking up the darts in the bloomers, turn under extension at right front edge on slot perforations. Close leg and center seam, the latter from upper edge in back to extension in front. Bring the "T" perforation at upper edge to center-back seam and tack. Hem the lower edge of the bloomers and insert elastic, after which the bloomers are ready to sew to the underbody.

Begin the blouse by sewing the sleeve to front and back as notched. Close the under-arm seams, hem the right side of the front, creasing on fold; then lap right front on left, centers even. Remember that the large "O" perforations indicate center-front. The lower edges are now stitched together, after which the cowboy collar is added to the neck, after corresponding small "o" perforations in collar and back of the waist have been brought together to see that the collar is properly adjusted. Close the cuff seam and add to the sleeve, as indicated.

The seam in the back of the skirt is now closed, the hem is turned under at the bottom, the pleats pressed into place and the skirt sewed to the waist. With the adjustment of the belt, the suit is finished, except for the addition of the buttons.

DIXON TELLS ABOUT TAMPICO CONDITION

When News Reached There of the Occupation of Vera Cruz by American Troops.

(SPECIAL TO THE TELEGRAM)

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 9.—H. W. Dixon, cashier of the Cortez Oil Corporation with offices at Tampico, Mex., is here with a committee of oil operators who are making demands on the government for protection of their property. Dixon is known extensively to West Virginians. For years he traveled that state as a book salesman. Hardly a West Virginian who owns a library of sufficient size and quality to boast about but has been a customer of Harvey Dixon. In recent years he has been in the oil business in Mexico and has met with a fair measure of success.

Mr. Dixon is one of 3,000 persons who had a narrow escape in getting away from Tampico, following a mob rising there, incited by the report of the fall of Vera Cruz.

"Prior to Tuesday after the taking of Vera Cruz by the United States marines and bluejackets, we had felt secure under the protection of the United States gunboats in the harbor opposite the custom house in Tampico," related Mr. Dixon.

"That morning, while passing in front of the English consulate, the officer there asked me why the American boats were departing; whether they had been scared away by Huerta. I was astonished to see the fall of the three American gunboats steaming out of the harbor.

"We got into communication with our consul, but he had no word from Washington, and was as much at sea as the rest of the Americans there.

"A few hours later notice was posted on the Tampico municipal building that Vera Cruz had fallen. The notice exhorted Mexicans to stand together to repel the invader and to drive all foreigners out of Mexico, especially the Americans or 'gringos'.

"Mobs began to form, and the rift-riff of Tampico, exalted by the better class of Mexicans, began to parade the streets with cries of 'death to the gringos'."

"With about 200 Americans I took refuge in the Southern hotel, the American house at Tampico. There were also about fifty women and children in the building.

"We barred the doors and waited. The mob congregated around the Southern hotel and began to hammer on the doors. The glass in the first floor windows was broken, but the doors held and the mob was unable to enter. Sixty of the men in the hotel were armed. They put themselves under the command of Ed Williams, a big-fisted but sensible Texan. Williams ordered the men not to fire until he should give the word. He realized that the shedding of one drop of Mexican blood might result in the massacre of every American man, woman and child in Tampico, and it was largely due to his good judgment and the caution of the leaders of the Americans in the other hotel buildings that a massacre was averted.

"Late Tuesday evening after we had been refused protection by the English gunboat and the boats carrying the Stars and Stripes had sailed away out of the harbor, a couple of German officers from the gunboat, Dresden, came to the Southern hotel. The commanding officer ordered the Mexicans to disperse, and declared that if the foreigners were not allowed to depart in peace, he would land marines and take possession.

"We took refuge on the Dresden, and the following day word was sent to the Cortez Oil Corporation, advising the officers that their employees could take refuge on the English ship.

"There were a great many German-born Americans among those who took refuge on the Dresden, and after a suggestion from one of them, we sent a cablegram to Emperor Wilhelm of Germany, thanking him for the protection afforded us.

"After getting safely out of Tampico I chanced to meet Norman Lind, son of John Lind, President Wilson's personal representative in Mexico. Young Lind told me of his harrowing experience. He had sought refuge on the English gunboat. When the commanding officer found he was an American, he ordered him to leave the boat. An open launch was provided for him, and he drifted about the harbor all night. He told me he was afraid to pull to shore until morning, for fear of meeting with Mexicans."

"The Mexicans, as all who have been in that country know, hate Americans. There are millions of dollars worth of American-owned property in Mexico, and it is all in jeopardy. My mission in Washington, along with other oil men, is to try to get the government to do something toward protecting this property."
